RED ARMY 225 MILES FROM BERLIN

Germans Break Through Near Strasbourg; 7th Army Strikes Back

JAP ASSAULTS NEAR ROSARIO ARE REPULSED

AMERICANS TIGHTEN GRIP ON HIGHWAY TO MANILA

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Luzon, Saturday, Jan. 20. (AP) — Japanese counter-attacks near Rosario Wednesday night were bloodily repulsed, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

Rosario, on the left flank of MacArthur's Luzon beachhead, is on a highway leading to Baguio, summer capital of the Philippines and the likely seat of Japanese military officials.

The town, six miles inland from Damortis, has been the scene of bitter fighting for days. The Americans yesterday were reported on the outskirts, with naval guns shelling the city.

The enemy was strongly entrenched in the area. One frontline dispatch predicted the digging-out job would be as difficult as it was at Peleliu in the Palaus.

Road Junction Taken

To the southeast at Binalonan a small Japanese tank unit was destroyed as the Americans tightened their grip on the main Manila-Baguio highway, now in Yank hands at a half dozen places.

Binalonan, where two highways intersect, was captured by the Americans last Sunday.

A six-mile advance down the central Luzon plain put Yank infantrymen at Santa Ignacia. These Americans are moving from captured Camiling toward a junction at Tarlac with another Yank column.

Reports of fighting at Rosario and Binalonan followed by just a day a bitter 24-hour battle for the road junction city of Urdaneta, 27 miles inland from the Lingayen Gulf beachhead.

It was evident the Japanese were making a stand of it along MacArthur's left flank, possibly because of important Nipponese officials at Baguio.

Yanks who captured Urdaneta were reported moving south on Villasia, a town only two miles from an important east-west highway. Before reaching that highway the Americans must cross the winding Agno River again.

The Americans took possession of high ground suitable for observation and artillery by capturing Cubaruan town atop the Cabaruan hills.

Canadian Draftees Evade Oversea Duty

Quebec, Jan. 19 (AP)—The Chronicle-Telegraph published an unconfirmed report today that the home defense army had "virtually taken possession" of a camp near here while a dispatch dated Calgary said 400 draftees scheduled to go overseas had failed to return from holiday leaves.

These rumors that Canada's home defense troubles were breaking out again came after reports circulated yesterday that 600 home defense draftees had failed to return to London, Ontario, after leaves and that 100 others scaled the walls of their barracks and still were at large.

Roosevelt Will Start His Toughest 4 Years In White House Today

BY TOM REEDY

Washington, Jan. 19. (AP)—President Roosevelt closed the ledger tonight on three full terms in the White House and, with a grin and a quip, got ready for his fourth inauguration tomorrow at noon.

While all was hubbub in the White House for the momentous occasion, the president himself had to be almost disinterested—his desk as usual piled high with war problems.

Two weeks short of 63 years, Mr. Roosevelt served up his famous smile, however, as his attitude toward what may be the toughest four years of all. After all, he said, the first 12 years are the hardest.

The war has turned this next inaugural topsy-turvy. Instead of big parades and ceremonies at the capitol, it will be a quiet affair on the porch of the White House. There will be 5,000 guests, instead of the usual 25,000 or more spectators. All but a handful will stand on the lawn.

Another wartime effect — the president is sparing only 20 minutes of his crowded day for the whole show. He is striving to keep his inaugural address within 500 words. Lincoln's second term started off with only 600.

Across town, Senator Harry Truman of Missouri got out his best bib and tucker as No. 2 man in the show. He takes the oath as vice president before the president is sworn in by Chief Justice Harlan Stone.

Truman is Mr. Roosevelt's third vice presidential mate. John Nance Garner served the first two terms; Henry Wallace, the third.

Wallace is out of a job as of noon tomorrow but the president said he didn't think he would starve. The executive declined to clear up now what plans he has for Wallace though the betting is that it will be the post of commerce secretary.

Close by the president when he raises his right hand tomorrow will be only two of his original "new deal" cabinet of depression-dark 1932. They are Interior Secretary Ickes and Labor Secretary Perkins.

RECESS TAKEN BY LEGISLATURE

Bill Prepared To Stop Solons From Backing Special Interests

Lansing, Jan. 19. (AP)—Recessing for the week-end, the legislature learned today it will return to face a move to prevent its members from representing special interests in the making of laws.

The state bar of Michigan has forbidden lawyer - legislators to represent any client having a special interest in legislation, but there now is nothing to deter non-lawyer members from representing groups or individuals.

Senator Don VanderWerp said he is preparing a bill to treat all alike. He said it would propose that a legislator employed to represent some group or individual other than his constituents at large must file a sworn statement of the facts with the secretary of state. Violations would be punishable as felonies.

After consulting with attorneys, he said he would propose also to make it illegal for lawyers or others in the legislature to be employed by some person or group at a salary or fee in excess of the amount which would be paid for that work to a non-legislator. He added this requirement would apply only to an employer who would benefit or lose from the fate of legislation.

He said he considered his plan is a "deterrent" and not a "preventative" of legislators' placing employers' interests ahead of those of the people.

Prodding of legislative leaders for speed up of legislative work had little effect today. The senate did no work because it lacked a quorum of members.

BIG FIRES SET AT KOBE-OSAKA

Japan's Best Airplane Plants Blasted By Saipan B-29s

BY VERN HAUGLAND

B-29 Headquarters, Guam, Jan. 19 (AP)—Scores of Saipan-based Superfortresses today made their first sweep over the Kobeasaka industrial area on Honshu island, Japan, leaving big fires rising from the sprawling Kawasaki aircraft factory after the daylight raid.

(While 20th Air Force headquarters at Washington said only that a "sizable force" of the B-29s attacked the modern factory at Akashi, 10 miles west of Kobe, the Tokyo radio set the figure at 80 planes and admitted "some damage" was done.)

All the Superforts returned home, having encountered only fairly light aerial and anti-aircraft opposition. The crewmen reported every plane in the formation hit the target.

Perhaps the reason for the unusually good preliminary reports for the raid—better than any made immediately following previous Honshu attacks—was due to the fact that the planes came over their target several thousand feet lower than had been the earlier practice and the bombing was done visually at a comparatively low altitude.

The city of Akashi is one in a cluster of communities in the heavily populated Kobe-Osaka manufacturing and shippinig area on Honshu's south coast. Osaka, Japan's second largest city, had a pre-war population of 3,252,340 and Kobe, sixth in size, 967,234.

CHURCHILL GETS 340 TO 7 VOTE

Roosevelt And Stalin To Help Formulate Foreign Policies

BY JAMES F. KING

London, Jan. 19 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill won a 340-to-7 vote of confidence in Britain's interventionist policy today after Foreign Secretary Eden announced that President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin would be asked to join in creating immediate international machinery for dealing with problems arising in liberated lands.

Eden disclosed that the appeal for creation of machinery with teeth in it to deal quickly with international political problems would be laid before the forthcoming "big three" meeting.

He made the disclosure at the close of a two-day war debate with a blunt demand that the house of commons show whether "we have your support * * * or not." He asserted that he wanted to show the world that the Churchill government was not "tottering."

Eden's call for a vote of confidence came over the protests of a small faction of Laborites who charged the government with putting them on the spot, as technically the balloting was on a $4,000,000,000 war appropriations bill.

BATTLES RAGE ALONG WHOLE WINTER FRONT

ALLIES AND NAZIS SPUR STALLED OFFENSIVES

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Paris, Jan. 19 (AP)—The U. S. Seventh army struck back today at German forces north of imperiled Strasbourg, where the enemy earlier in the day massed 10,000 troops, broke from the Rhine bridgehead and joined up with other forces farther north on a solid 75-mile front.

Fighter-bombers ripped into enemy armor and doughboys drove the Germans back across the Zorn river some nine miles north of the Alsatian capital. Other American blows showered down on the front in a grim attempt to keep the Germans from outflanking all American positions in northeastern France.

Panhandle Cut

Virtually all the 300-mile western front was aflame. Allied and German armies raced to see which could get their stalled offensives rolling first in these critical winter months when Germany is faced with crushing blows from east and west.

The British Second army in a two-mile sweep all but cut off the German Panhandle north of Aachen, overran seven or more towns, and was storming the western ramparts of the Reich and closing in the Roer river line some 38 miles west of industrial Dusseldorf on the Rhine.

SAVE REICH SOMEHOW

London, Jan. 19 (AP)—As Stalin's supertanks thundered toward Berlin, German spokesmen tonight called upon every man to save the Reich—"somehow or other."

"We cannot prevent the Russians from taking this or that town of Poland," said the German military radio. "The important task is to bar the enemy's way into the Reich with sufficient forces and means."

"All that matters now," echoed the Deutsche Algemeine Zeitung, "is somehow or other to bar the road into the Reich."

The U. S. First army, slashing through the wind-driven snow as much as two miles along a 40-mile front, had closed to within four miles of St. Vith—the way out of the now-shattered Ardennes salient—from the west as well as north.

The U. S. Third army, exploiting a break across the Sure river of northern Luxembourg along an eight-mile front, seized Diekirch, 17 miles northeast of the Duchy's capital, nearby Bettendorf, and was making menacing gestures on the right flank at the Duchy's border only eight miles west of the Siegfried fortress of Trier.

Enemy Crosses Rhine

Even on the long-slumbering Holland front, the Canadian First army was attacking after a battalion of Germans wedged into its lines at Zetten in the watersoaked wastes northeast of Nijmegen.

The German bridgehead nine miles north of Strasbourg, capital of Alsace, became a full-blown menace overnight as the Germans smashed three to four miles through the lines which the U. S. Seventh army had been holding north of the bridgehead.

This broke the Allied hold on the Rhine for 27 miles north of

Liberty Ship Sunk By Jap Submarine; Survivors Gunned

San Francisco, Jan. 19 (AP) — The Navy today disclosed loss of the Liberty ship John A. Johnson and ten of its men in the Pacific in November 1944 by action of a Japanese submarine whose frenzied crew shouted and danced on its deck and poured machinegun bullets at the helpless survivors.

Five men were wounded seriously by bullets and the submarine rammed one life raft and made repeated attempts to overturn others.

Survivors, telling their stories to interviewers in the presence of naval officers, related how they spent two terrifying hours submerging themselves and hiding behind bits of wreckage to keep away from the rampaging boat and its guns.

(On Nov. 6 both the German radio and radio Tokyo stated, without giving dates, that "Japanese submarines operating on the American Pacific coast sank several transport vessels, including some oil tankers.")

Stiff Draft Dodger Penalties Proposed For Men 18 To 45

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—"Draft dodger" penalties—a maximum of five years imprisonment and fine up to $10,000—were approved by the house military committee today for men 18 to 45 who wilfully leave essential war jobs.

This or any other version of the manpower control bill however, faces a probable stiff fight on the house floor.

The committee, meeting behind closed doors, substituted the civilian penalties, in the proposed "work - or - be - drafted" act, for the original provisions that men refusing to take or keep war work would be inducted into army labor battalions. The same penalties are expected to be set up Monday for men who refuse to take war jobs on draft board orders.

Meanwhile new opposition to President Roosevelt's appeal for drastic manpower legislation took shape within the senate's war investigating committee.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) said he was "shocked" by evidence uncovered during an inquiry into manpower condiitons at the Norfolk (Va) Navy Yard this week.

Other members said the testimony indicated some workers were doing tasks "that hardly could be connected with shipbuilding" and that manpower "was being wasted in other ways."

Ferguson and Senator Kilgore (D-WVa) are expected to take the floor Monday for a full-fledged attack on labor draft proposals.

Earlier in the day the army reported to the house committee that war casualties requiring hospitalization jumped 270 per cent in the period including the "bulge" battle, and that drafting of nurses is "imperative to provide adequate care for America's wounded.

Major General Norman T. Kirk, Army surgeon general, testified before the house military committee that since last May "our patients requiring nursing care have increased from 260,000 to 450,000," while army nursing personnel, despite appeals, has grown by only 2,000. President Roosevelt has said 20,000 are needed quickly.

The general put all-out army backing behind President Roosevelt's call for a nurse draft, made in the executive's "state of the union" message to congress two weeks ago.

It is essential, he declared, that the number of army nurses be increased immediately from 42,000 to 60,000. He said those drafted would be commissioned second lieutenants.

WALLACE LINED UP FOR CABINET

Jesse Jones May Stay As Head Of Federal Lending Agencies

BY JACK BELL

Washington, Jan. 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt has offered Henry A. Wallace the post as secretary of commerce but he may request Jesse Jones to remain as head of the government's lending agencies, a well informed senator said today.

This senator, who declined to be quoted by name, said the only question remaining to be settled was whether the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and kindred agencies should be moved out of the department and headed by Jones in a separate setup.

Jones has held the commerce portfolio for four years and friends believe he will stay on as lending chief if the president insists.

Wallace will give the oath of office to his successor, Harry S. Truman of Missouri, tomorrow noon. He conferred with the president at the White House today. He declined to talk to reporters thereafter and did not return to his capitol office, where telephones were being disconnected and files moved out.

Earlier Mr. Roosevelt replied to a news conference question about the vice president's future plans with the information that Henry Wallace was not going to starve. He added that that was a good news tip.

Attaches confidently expect the Wallace nomination to be sent to the senate Monday, possibly with one other cabinet change.

Russia Opens Way For Sending Relief Supplies To Poland

Washington, Jan. 19. (AP)—Russia has now opened the way for shipment of relief supplies into Poland and Czechoslovakia, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration announced today.

Director General Herbert H. Lehman said he had been informed by Moscow that a Black Sea port, unloading facilities and overland transportation will be available to send food, clothing and medical supplies into the two partially liberated countries.

"This clears the way for the first shipment of relief supplies," UNRRA said.

Permission was requested some months ago. Polish Ambassador Jan Ciechanowski said in Washington earlier this week that the situation in Poland is desperate and pleaded that everything possible be done to move in relief supplies.

BABY KIDNAPER JUDGED INSANE

Detroit Negro Maid Is Sentenced To Ionia State Hospital

Detroit, Jan. 19 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Smith, a negro nursemaid charged with the kidnaping last September of four-month-old Bobby King, was committed today to the Ionia state hospital after Recorder's Judge Joseph A Gillis adjudged her insane.

The baby was found in Mrs. Smith's home last Oct. 1. The infant's skin was darkened and a scar was painted on one cheek. Mrs. Smith, who was employed in the King home for about a week prior to the disappearance of the boy, claimed the child was her own.

The nursemaid pleaded innocent when arraigned Oct. 13 on a kidnaping charge and was held on $25,000 bond. Judge Gillis postponed her trial on the charge until Mrs. Smith's release from the hospital.

He adjudged her insane after a sanity commission reported Mrs. Smith as "suffering from a mental disease characterized by serious anxiety when she is locked in her cell, by marked periods of depression, by complete unreliability and by claims of amnesia about the occasion of the kidnaping."

The commission said hospital treatment might restore her mental stability.

Revolver In Waste Paper May Be Clue To Hooper Murder

Jackson, Mich., Jan. 19. (AP)—A six-man coroner's jury found formally today that Senator Warren G. Hooper came to his death at the hands of "a person or persons unknown" and left it to a horde of investigators to run down the identity of the slayer who killed Hooper, a key grand jury witness, on Jan. 11.

(At Monroe, the police announced tonight that employes of the River Raisin Paper company in that city had found a short barrelled, nickel plated revolver in a load of waste paper delivered from Detroit, and that the weapon was being sent to East Lansing for tests to determine whether it was the weapon used to kill Hooper. It was fully loaded, and of the same calibre as bullets removed from Hooper's body by autopsy surgeons.)

HUGE PINCERS CLAMPS UPON EAST PRUSSIA

LODZ AND KRAKOW TAKEN IN SURGE ACROSS POLAND

BY W. W. HERCHER

London, Saturday, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Red army, opening two more massive offensives, reached the German Silesian frontier 225 miles from Berlin yesterday in its sensational surge through Poland, captured the bastions of Lodz and Krakow, and clamped a huge pincers on East Prussia in a great new break-through into that ancient Reich province.

The Red army's first contact with the border of the main body of Germany, from which Adolf Hitler's legions invaded Poland to start the Second World Sept. 1, 1939, was announced officially in the midnight Moscow communique.

Unofficial reports said the Russians already had plunged across the frontier and were fighting on the Nazis' beleaguered homeland.

Defenses Collapse

It was the first Ukraine army, one of five powerful Soviet armies estimated at 3,000,000 or more men, that reached the frontier of industrially-rich Silesia with the capture of Praszka, 50 miles east of the capital at Breslau. These troops also toppled the six-way road junction of Wielun, 12 miles northeast of Praszka, and also 225 miles southeast of Berlin.

Scoring their greatest gains of the war, the Russians captured 2,750 towns and villages as they ripped through collapsing German lines on a twisting 800-mile front from the Baltic to Budapest.

Entire German divisions were being cut off and killed on the snow plains and in the mountains of central and southern Poland and the forests of East Prussia in the north. Budapest, ruined Hungarian capital, also was on the verge of complete liberation.

Berlin Admits Danger

Swamped by the Soviet avalance the Germans were fleeing from Poland back into Germany in an effort to escape disaster; fighting raged along the southeastern Silesian frontier, on the southern east Prussian border and 31 miles inside eastern East Prussia as the Russian steamroller advanced up to 30 miles.

The Germans were throwing in their home army of striplings, the elderly and the physically deficient in an effort to hold the Russians at the Silesian border, and Berlin spokesmen officially termed the situation "serious."

The Soviet-sponsored German National Committee in Moscow again called on the Germans to "revolt against Hitler," saying: "The German defense system in the east has crumbled—never yet has the German army been in such a catastrophic situation."

Big Day For Russia

Premier-Marshal Stalin announced these victories in five orders of the day, giving all Russia its greatest single days of triumph:

RELIEF SOUGHT IN LOCAL TAXES

Proposals Are Drafted For Legislature By Study Committee

Lansing, Jan. 19 (AP)—The state tax study committee, writing final recommendation to Governor Kelly and the legislature for revision of state and local tax laws, today adopted a series of proposals designed to bring financial relief to local units of government.

Chief among the proposals was the controversial suggestion that the state sales tax be reduced to two and one-half per cent, and cities only be authorized to levy a one-half of one per cent sales tax of its own, to be collected by the state and returned in full to the community levying the tax.

The committee adopted the proposal by a vote of 13 to 6 after Louis Schimmel, its research director, said representatives of cities had assured him they would support the measure.

The study group also recommended the constitution be amended to allow voters of any local governmental assessing district to increase the 15-mill tax limitation by majority vote for 15 years for new capital improvements. This may be done for only five years by a two-thirds majority vote of the electors.

It also urged equalized valuation of property be considered is assessed valuation for tax purposes, and that assessments be made at true cash value. Most assessments now are made on smaller percentages of cash value.

Schimmel told the committee under-assessment causes some local revenues collected under the 15-mill tax limitation to fall as much as one-third smaller than they need to be.

Another recommendation for relief of local government would permit municipalities to levy local excise taxes, would amend the intangible tax law to make it more productive, with all of the revenues going to local governmental units, and would provide a new method of distributing gasoline and weight taxes, designed to give incorporated cities and villages a greater share.

Capt. Jean Truckey On Radio Broadcast

Capt. Jean Truckey, a former resident of Garden, now with the army nurse corps overseas, and four other army nurses were the subject of a recent radio broadcast.

The script of the program, as it was broadcast on the Blue Network by "Time Views the News," was as follows:

"From one of our correspondents in Paris, Mary Welsh, comes a story of five American girls who decided to gamble their lives—for a cause.

"It was dusk on the western front. The powerful armies of Marshal Karl von Rundstedt were slashing forward in their great counter-attack, Yank doughboys had to give ground. To Capt. Jean Truckey of the Army Nurse Corps came an order to move her evacuation hospital to the rear. But—five nurses were to stay behind to care for the most serious cases and to assist in emergency operations. Then came Nurse Truckey's dilemma. Whom should she pick for a task she, herself, was not allowed to perform? There could be no picking on Nurse Truckey's part. She faced the girls under her command, asked for five volunteers. Immediately a sea of hands was waving in front of her, and cries of "I want to stay," "please let me stay" loudly resounded in her ears.

"Nurse Truckey finally did have to choose the five. And those five stayed, volunteered for shelling capture and even death. But there was work to do, hard gnawing work, and they did it. And today we are glad to be able to report that the hospital and the girls were saved."

Manistique Officer Helps To Knock Out Eight German Tanks

BY THOBURN WIANT

With the 90th Infantry Division, U. S. Third Army, Jan. 19 (AP) — The 773rd tank destroyer battalion supporting the 90th division knocked out eight German tanks in a savage battle near Oberwampach, six miles east of Bastogne, and became the first American tank destroyer outfit to pass the 100 mark in enemy kills.

The eight victories gave the battalion commanded by Lt. Col. Frank G. Spiess of New Orleans a total of 102 destroyed.

In the battle which set this record score a platoon led by Lt. Leon M. Wood of Manistique, Mich., assisted by S/Sgt. Michael Pitcher of Williamsburg, Pa., spotted ten German tanks heading down a pass.

The sharp-shooting Americans blasted five before the Germans decided to withdraw and regroup. In a short time the Nazis returned and traded shells point blank, the Germans losing three more tanks and the Americans two destroyers.

Among the standout marksmen of the American battalion was Lt. Delbert G. Reck of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Strasbourg to the German frontier, and gave the enemy one solid line stretching all the way west to Sarreguemines.

The Germans already had brought up their lines along the Rhine to within 10 miles south of Strasbourg. The capital found itself almost in the middle of a 22-mile stretch of Allied-held positions on the west bank.

The Germans were hurrying forces across the Rhine north of Strasbourg by pontoon bridge and ferry apparently bent on trying a new offensive now that the Ardennes effort had been blasted.

Squeeze On In South

The enemy seized Stattmaten, Dengolsheim and Dalhunden in its drive that joined up with other German forces which for ten days have been hammering without success against American Maginot line positions at Hatten, eight miles south of the Reich's border.

The fighting ebbed around Hatten, where the Germans have been attacking with two armored divisions which were mauled badly.

To the southwest, Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey's Tommies overran four or more German villages in a two-mile drive that cut almost all the way across the German Panhandle. Among the towns taken was Hongen, less than a mile from the German-Dutch border.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army defied the weather and made some of the most promising gains since it clogged its gears in snowdrifts and dug-in enemy defenses.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army was tightening the squeeze from the south.

Diekirch fell after the Fifth infantry division drove back three counterattacks. Six miles east, the Fourth division seized high ground at the junction of the Sure and Rour rivers, from where it could look east into Germany and the Siegfried line.

The Germans were forced to pull out of Diekirch fast to avoid entrapment as Patton's doughboys struck on into the hills beyond, where they were as much as three miles from the Sure after establishing bridgeheads yesterday.

Spinach is probably of Persian origin, and was introduced into Europe about the 15th century.

St. Joseph, Camp Fire Girls Add Paralysis Drive

Campfire Girls of the junior high school and senior girls of St. Joseph's school will serve as collectors of contributions to the infantile paralysis fund at the Michigan and Delft theaters during the week from Jan. 24 to 31. These collections are being made in theaters throughout the country in cooperation with the drive now in progress.

The collectors will be on hand at local theaters for all evening shows that week.

Campfire Girls are also helping with the drive by putting enclosures into several thousand envelopes, which are, in turn, sent to citizens of the community, soliciting contributions.

Wednesday afternoon, the eighth grade Chicagami Campfire Girls entertained at a party for the ninth grade Watassan group. The party was held in the backstage music room of the junior high school and the girls enjoyed dancing and games. Refreshments were served. Miss Dorothy Hilty and Miss Marjorie Safranek are guardians of the two groups.

JRC Requests Old Yule Cards

Mrs. John Luecke, Junior Red Cross chairman, has requested that everyone save old Christmas cards and send them by children to school. The Campfire Girls will collect all cards from the various schools and art groups and members of the Junior Red Cross will use them to make table favors for servicemen for next Christmas.

If persons who have old cards wish to retain the leaf giving personal message and senders name, the Junior Red Cross would like the portion of the card bearing the picture.

Casualties Mount

AMERICAN casualties on the western front alone since D-Day last June have already exceeded the American casualty totals sustained in World War I—333,000 against 322,000 in the first war. Of this number of casualties in the current European campaign, nearly 55,000 have been killed in action.

The number of American soldiers on the European front is considerably greater now than the number of Yanks who fought the Kaiser's armies in 1918. The end of the European war is still not in sight and the American people must necessarily steel themselves for further increases in the casualty lists.

The total number of casualties on all fighting fronts—European and Pacific combined, both Army and Navy—since the American entry into the war Dec. 7, 1941 has not yet been brought up to date, but the appearance of steadily increasing numbers of gold stars in the windows of the folks back home is vivid evidence that the cost in blood alone has been high.

Except for the losses sustained in the ill-fated German Christmas offensive, however, there can be no doubt that our casualties, heavy as they are, still have been considerably lower than anyone anticipated when the tremendous military tasks that have been accomplished were originally planned.

In the first World war, we did not have to storm the beaches to get a foothold on the French coast. Neither did we have to battle our way across all of France to drive a dagger into the German homeland. We were not fighting in Italy and North Africa as we have been forced to do in this war. And we had no other major enemy to combat all the way across the world to the Pacific as we have now.

There is still a long way to go, a bloody path strewn with heartaches leading to Berlin and Tokyo.

Where Did Coal Go?

NOT many weeks ago much publicity was given to a statement by government officials that there would be an adequate supply of coal to meet the nation's needs in 1945.

Now, a shortage of bituminous coal is reported, and the government has ordered "brownouts" in street lighting and taken other drastic measures to conserve fuel. Where the coal has gone is just as much a mystery as the disappearance of cigarets, diapers and other scarce articles.

Production of bituminous coal in 1944 reached 620,000,000 tons, which was 6,000,000 tons below the quota set by Solid Fuels Administrator Ickes, but still 6,000,000 tons above the best obtainable figures for 1944 use. Since we produced more coal in 1944 than the amount that was used, it is difficult to ascertain why there shall be a coal crisis at the beginning of this year.

Cooperation Needed

COOPERATION from motorists is being asked in the efforts to remove snow from the streets of Escanaba as rapidly as possible.

To facilitate removal of snow from Ludington street, owners should park their cars on a side street if possible. Locked automobiles left on the main thoroughfare, with emergency brake on or in gear, are difficult to move and greatly impede the progress of the snow loader. The public is also urged to observe the ordinance which prohibits parking on the street between 2 a. m. and 7 a. m. when snow plows are usually in operation.

Escanaba was one of the leaders in the snow removal movement and has achieved quite a reputation for the high standard of its winter street maintenance. In view of the current manpower shortage, the cooperation of motorists is urgently needed in keeping up this good work.

Forests for Peace

WOOD has found many uses in wartime, but now Prof. Paul A. Herbert, forestry school head of Michigan State College, points to the possibility of preserving world peace through strict control of the forests of Germany or any other aggressor nation.

Wood is highly essential to the waging of war, and if Germany is to prepare for another war she must first assure herself that she has an adequate timber supply.

He proposes five provisions which would safeguard the peace and assist in bringing about postwar prosperity:

German forests to be managed for the next 50 years on short growing trees to small sizes only.

Trees of larger sizes, in excess of those required to meet first provision, to be cut and used in rehabilitating areas devastated by the Germans.

Wood-using industries in Germany to be encouraged so that Allies can obtain finished forest products from Germany and provide German workers with jobs other than in war industries.

Germany to be permitted to import raw forest products to keep its wood using industries busy to prevent unemployment and the possible rise of another Hitler.

Two million acres of waste land in Germany to be converted into forests.

Herbert contends that this plan would serve the purposes of furnishing the Allies with reparations, limit the German material resources to make war, and remove the incentive for waging war.

Influence of Typewriter

MORE important than women's suffrage in the emancipation of women from the sheltered household life was the intricate business office machine, known as the typewriter. More than any other invention it has made woman an independent competitor in the world of trade.

The first American patent on a typewriter was granted to William Austin Burt in 1829, but the only model of his machine was destroyed by fire in 1836. So it remained for Christopher Latham Sholes to develop the first practical typewriting device in 1874. James Densmore, oil tycoon of Meadville, Pa., who had financed Sholes efforts, then decided to offer the machine to Remington and Sons of Ilion, N. Y., who became the first manufacturer of typewriters on a commercial basis.

The typewriter has made women indispensable throughout the business world, and has paved the way for greater achievements by them in varied fields of endeavor in the future.

NOT AN EXPERIMENT

(Marquette Mining Journal

Negaunee citizens should and probably will approve the new charter which will be voted on at a special election Jan. 29. When they elected the charter commission and gave it authority to draft the charter now submitted for acceptance they served notice, in effect, they were convinced the old charter was outmoded, that it does not provide the city with the kind of government they want.

As a matter of fact, the old charter is so inadequate that it has been necessary to by-pass it. It contains many horse-and-buggy provisions which simply cannot be applied to the operation of a modern municipality. It lacks many provisions which are necessary to satisfactory handling of city affairs and are essential if the taxpayer is to get maximum return for his money.

After long study of charters used in other cities the Negaunee commission drafted one which calls for the council-manager form of government. It is not an experiment. It is the type adopted with excellent results in hundreds of American cities, large and small. Many cities in Michigan have scrapped the old aldermanic system, in which ward and party politics ruled, and have been able, under the council-manager plan, to pay their debts, reduce tax rates and provide more and better public services. Given an able council and qualified manager there is no reason why Negaunee cannot profit just as much by the change.

Six dancers collapsed on a Paris stage because of cold due to the coal shortage. The show turned out to be a frost.

Take My Word For It . . Frank Colby

HOW DID IT START?

Q. Who was "Davy Jones," and what is meant by his "locker"?

A. In nautical lore, Davy Jones has long been spoken of as the evil spirit of the sea. The name is supposed to be a corruption of Duppy Jonah. Duppy, a word used among Negroes of the West Indies, designates a malevolent haunting spirit. And Jonah, of course, refers to the Jonah of the New Testament; his name has become a synonym for a person or thing that causes bad luck.

Davy Jones's locker is the bottom of the sea. Of lost ships or drowned seamen, it is said that they have gone to Davy Jones's locker.

Q. How did the Mardi Gras carnival of New Orleans get its name?

A. Mardi gras is French for "fat Tuesday." It refers to Shrove Tuesday, which is the day before the beginning of Lent, therefore, the last day of feasting. In France a fat (gras) ox was ceremoniously paraded through the streets.

In New Orleans the carnival of Mardi Gras ends on Shrove Tuesday. "King Rex," accompanied by his "Mystick Krewe of Comus," appears in the spectacular parade of floats, and is later unmasked at the Mardi Gras ball.

In Roman Catholic countries the carnival is a period of festivals and merrymaking preceding Lent. The carnival takes its name from the Latin phrase carne vale, meaning, "O flesh, farewell!" an allusion to the putting aside of carnal things during the Lenten season. (Carnal is from the Latin carnis, which meant originally "a piece of meat.")

Do menus in French give you an inferiority complex? Do such common terms as au gratin, petit pois, filet mignon, cafe noir, cause you to play safe and order "a ham sandwich and a glass of milk"? Send for my new pamphlet listing correct pronunciations of scores of French dishes and culinary terms. Send a stamped (3c), self-addressed envelope to Frank Colby, in care of this paper.

World Events Analyzed

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

When the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was considering ratification of President Roosevelt's six nominations for Assistant Secretaryships in the Department of State, Senator Claude Pepper of Florida brought up the issue of American policy with regard to the Spanish revolution and the Spanish dictator, Francisco Franco. Specially, Pepper cited four pages in Sumner Welles's recent book, "The Time for Decision," in which the former Undersecretary summed up the situation by saying that "Of all our blind isolationist policies, the most disastrous was our attitude on the Spanish Civil War."

Referring to the stampede of peace-at-any-price organizations to Washington at the end of 1936, and their pressure to amend existing neutrality legislation to prevent shipment of arms to the Spanish Republican forces who were seeking to put down the Franco revolution, Pepper read the Welles passage which says that when the Senate Foreign Relations Committee asked for State Department advice on this situation, it received from the official spokesman for the Department this statement:

"You are trying to protect the neutrality of this country, to prevent this country from becoming involved in war, and at the same time not sacrificing unduly the interest of our own people by the enactment of this domestic legislation. It is a tremendous step forward . . ."

—ARMS BLOCKADE AIDED FRANCO—

Thus advised, wrote Welles, Congress by an almost unanimous vote revised the neutrality legislation on Jan. 8, 1937, and stopped further arms shipment to Spain. It was naturally a tremendous advantage to Franco. The inference which Welles draws is that this worked to the advantage of Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy and helped bring on the European war.

Welles says that President Roosevelt recognized this danger and that when the Spanish arms embargo act came to him for signature, "he expressed in writing the deep disquiet it caused him and the regret with which he signed it."

When all these old bones were dug up after seven years and aired before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in December, 1944, there arose some question as to who this unamed spokesman was. There was a hunch that it might be James Clement Dunn, who in 1936 and '37 was head of the division of western European affairs and was now the President's choice for Assistant Secretary of State.

Dunn declared that the statement quoted by Welles was not his, but even that did not disclose the identity of who might have given Congress its steer on the Spanish situation.

The mystery, however, has now been cleared up. The statement came from the late R. Walton Moore, who was then Assistant Secretary of State and from 1937 until his death in 1941 was Counselor to Secretary Hull.

—MOORE STATEMENT PRECEDED REVOLUTION—

The responsibility which Welles puts on Moore's shoulders is not, however, as great as might appear from the Welles book, for in tracking down the crucial policy statement to its correct source, it has also been disclosed that Moore did not make the statement in December, 1936, as Welles says he did, but in January, 1936. This was six months before the revolution broke out in Spain. Furthermore, Moore made this statement with reference not to the Spanish arms embargo act, but to another measure which was never passed.

There is another point of confusion in the Welles statement that the President was out of the country while the Spanish arms embargo policy was being adopted by Congress. The President, Hull and Welles had gone to the Inter-American Peace conference in Buenos Aires toward the end of 1936. But the Spanish policy had been determined and announced previously by the President and R. Walton Moore on Aug. 22, and the President returned to Washington on Dec. 16. So the President was in on the whole play. It was Welles who was out of the country. He stopped off in Rio on the way back from B. A., and in the intervening years his memory played him a dirty trick. The President's message of regret was over the earlier neutrality act—not the Spanish embargo.

This footnote may set the facts straight and may be of more than historical interest if the situation in Franco Spain again gets hot.

Gracie Allen Says.

Well, some thoughtless war correspondent over in the Philippines has just cabled the news that all the Japs are starting to move out of their Manila hotels and apartments in fear of the approaching American troops.

I say "thoughtless" because when word gets around that apartments are vacant in Manila an army of homeless American civilians is liable to enter the city before MacArthur does.

Well, it just goes to show the Japs can't take it. You wouldn't find any American vacating his apartment just because some old army was at the front door. Have you tried to find an apartment lately? Our forefathers complained because they had to fight sitting bull to find a place to live. The present occupants of apartments may not be Indians but believe me sitting bull couldn't sit any tighter than they are doing.

The farmers' main hope is for enough men to work the crops. For the land's sake!

DIME NOVELIST DIES — To readers of an older generation the name Frank Merriwell will bring recollections of a dime novel hero to whom nothing was impossible.

Dunathan

But the death the other day of Harvan Barr Patten, author of the Merriwell books under the pen name of Burt L. Standish, passed almost unnoticed. Patten died at the home of his son in San Diego, Calif., at the age of 78.

Perhaps it is a mistake to describe the character Merriwell as out of a dime novel. Rather he was a boy's hero who enjoyed more adventures per book than most young men meet in a lifetime. It might better be said that Merriwell was the transition character from the dime novel hero to the modern juvenile adventurer.

Merriwell emerged as a melodranatic hero to youth back in 1896, appearing in Tip Top Weekly and earned a fortune for his publisher, Street & Smith. This hero of the teen-agers back in the 1900's had little in common with today's conception of reality as exemplified in the fantastic adventures of Buck Rogers, Superman or Superwoman. The adventures Merriwell had were stupendous,-certainly—but they were of this earth.

* * *

VIRTUE TRIUMPHS — Patten at the age of 14 was six feet tall and weighed 115 pounds. Sensitive about this beanpole type of architecture, Patten turned to reading the dime novels of the period of his youth. Undoubtedly, like many another boy of his time, he had to read those novels surreptitiously in the haymow or out in the orchard.

For respectable parents were more alarmed about the dime novels of those days than are parents of today when their children get the nightmares from following the adventures of the Hooded Monster in the latest so-called "funny book."

Even the titles of the early dime novels were enough to scare law-abiding parents into greater righteousness. For the glaringly printed words on the covers told that this was the story of "Double Dan, the Dastard", or "Belshazzar Breck, the Bailiff of Blue Blazes."

Reading these early offerings in juvenile literature, Patten decided that he could do as well if not better. Like all writers, however, he was forced into it by force of circumstances. Too indolent to study in school, he ran away from home when his father told him he would "have to study or go to work." His first work in a machine shop earned him 90 cents and a respect but growing dislike for unskilled labor. He took up writing as the lesser of two evils.

* * *

MANLY FELLOW—The character Frank Merriwell was not "born" of Patten's fertile mind until after he had established a moderate success. His first stories, "A Bad Man" and "The Pride of Sandy Flat" sold for $6 each. Other stories and novels followed with higher rates of pay—up to $100.

Patten wrote under the name Burt L. Standish because of his admiration for Longfellow's "Courtship of Miles Standish", which would indicate that Patten read more than dime novels.

Merriwell became a real character to millions of youthful readers, although by present-day standards he was an impossibly manly and virtuous youth. He always won prep school and college athletic games in the last minute of play, saved maidens from distress and death with an impersonal gallantry, and performed other feats of strength and daring with equal nonchalance.

SLAVE DRIVER—Once Frank Merriwell caught the imagination of youth and began making money for Patten's publisher, it kept Patten busy turning out the scores of Merriwell stories which followed from his prolific pen. He wrote Merriwell books for 17 years ,totaled more than 25 million words. His life-time production was estimated at 40 million words.

When Frank Merriwell had been written through Yale, his fiction brother, Dick Merriwell, carried on about 1907, followed by Frank Meriwell, Jr., who saw the series decline and fall about 1912 as the taste in fiction changed. Patten tried to adapt the Merriwell characters to the new "pulp" type fiction magazine, but it was only a moderate success.

* * *

PARENTS APPROVED — The success of the Merriwell books was largely due to a strange combination. Patten included in them most of the "blood and thunder" of the earlier dime novel thrillers, but made the principal character and the background one of ultra respectability. This gave boy readers what they wanted and brought approval from the parents. It was a case of transplanting high adventure into the sanctity of the parlor.

The Merriwell books could be placed on the parlor table beside the family Bible without disturbing anyone's sensibilities.

* * *

AS OF TODAY — This background on Patten and his works is given largely for comparison with present-day authors of juvenile books and the quality of their product. For all his near-priggishness, Patten's Merriwell character was manly, forceful and virtuous. And what is most remarkable is that Merriwell was a popular hero for 17 years.

What does youth read most today? Who is the popular hero of young boys now? The answers to both questions are the characters in the funny books. There are so many of these, incidentally, that nowhere does there emerge one strong and fascinating character to equal the elevating moral force of the manly Merriwell.

—Clint Dunathan.

10 Years Ago—1935

Manistique—A call to the home of William Deparo at Cooks in the morning and a fire in the storeroom of the Lied creamery brought the fire department out twice on Saturday.

William J. Clark was elected president of the Tri-County Automobile Dealers association in session at the Delta hotel here Friday night. Edward McDonough was named secretary-treasurer.

The code enforcement committee appointed, is headed by Harry D. Brackett, chairman, with associate members, Ernest Carlstrom and Alex Creighton, Manistique; Charles Behrind, Powers; Jules DeGrand, Escanaba, and Harold P. Lindsay, Escanaba, non-dealer member.

Naturally, much interest is felt in what the total eclipse of the sun on January 24th will do to radio. The last time the moon's shadow passed over a densely populated region inhabited by many millions of civilized people was over 119 years ago—June 24, 1806. Radio wasn't thought of then, but now the total eclipse of the sun will be studied in its effect among other things on radio transmission and reception. Unfortunately, in the path of this total eclipse, which is between 100 and 110 miles wide, there is no broadcasting station until the shadow reaches Buffalo.

Peter C. Dube, ex-trainer for Bobby McLean, world's champion ice skating speedster, will meet Verne Anderson of Gladstone Sunday afternoon, it was announced last night. The affair is the result of a challenge issued by Anderson, in which he offered "to meet Dube for any distance on ice skates for any amount of money."

NEW YORK—Shortly after the invasion of Africa an important staff meeting was held in Casablanca to discuss military matters which were urgent. A large number of the highest ranking officers were to attend this meeting at which there was to be a briefing about the action to be taken. A password had to be decided upon — one which would be least likely to be discovered by anybody else . . . The password finally selected as safest for this meeting of top Allied officers was "Heil Hitler."

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS in Indiana will probably be the meeting place for the conference of foreign ministers which will be held in March . . . CHARLES WIGGINS, who was one of Calvin Coolidge's best friends, tells of a week end in the days when Coolidge was Governor of Massachusetts. The week end was spent at a farm near a New England village. On Saturday afternoon Coolidge decided to go to the village for a shave. He returned in record time . . . "That was a fast shave," his host told him. "Didn't the barber engage you in conversation?" . . . "He tried to, but I didn't respond," said Coolidge . . . "Didn't you tell him you were Governor of Massachusetts?" he was asked . . . "No," said Coolidge "I never discuss politics with a fellow who has a razor on my throat."

ELLA LOGAN returns from Europe this week, after many months abroad, only because her accompanist became ill and was sent home . . . Sir Henry Maitland Wilson will delay meeting the press when he arrives here. Lord Halifax is trying to avoid having this meeting because the General will be questioned about the fighting in Greece . . . The blizzard in New Haven last week end caused a taxi shortage there. The cast of "One-Man Show" was scheduled to make the 12:53 train. Jed Harris' manager, Ben Stein, asked the truck driver transporting the show's sets to drive Constance Cummings, James Rennie and the others to the station. "Can't. I'm loaded," said the driver. Stein shattered a phrase and tradition by ruling: "The show must go off." The sets were removed, and the cast rode in the truck.

JOHN MILLS, the host at Les Ambassadeurs and at the Milroy Club in London, was faced with an unusual problem last week: He received a phone call from Scotland Yard, notifying him that the Duchess of Kent was coming and Scotland Yard wanted to make sure there would be no difficulties. The caller added that the Duchess wanted the table in the right-hand corner of the room . . . "But that table is reserved for Mrs. Anthony Eden," Mills reported . . . The Scotland Yard man threw the problem back at Mills by asking "WHO is more important?" and then hanging up.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. R. S. Allen now on active service)

Washington — Presidents of the United States have been inaugurated all over the country, from New York where George Washington took the first oath of office, to a Vermont farmhouse where Calvin Coolidge was sworn in after Harding's death.

Pearson

But tomorrow will be the second time in history that a President has taken the oath in the White House.

Previous precedent was in 1876 when Rutherford B. Hayes, Republican, ran neck and neck with Samuel J. Tilden, Democrat. Tilden had the larger popular vote, but Hayes finally obtained a majority of one vote in the electoral college on March 2, 1877.

Because of this late decision and the closeness of the vote, there were threats that Hayes would never be permitted to take the oath of office. Also March 4 fell upon Sunday. So President Grant, fearing trouble from the fact the country might be without a President for a few hours, invited Hayes to dine with him at the White House on March 3. Chief Justice Waite also was a guest. Just before dinner, Grant led his guests into the red room where Hayes was secretly sowrn in as President of the United States.

Roosevelt is one of the few presidents who has never undergone the ordeal of escorting a president-elect to the Capitol to be sworn in. The only other presidents who shuned this were the two Adamses. John Adams, the second President, had engaged in a bitter campaign with Thomas Jefferson, and on daybreak of the inauguration, he quietly left the city.

Later his son, John Quincy Adams, did not attend Andrew Jackson's inaugural. Finding the day "warm and springlike," he ordered his horse and rode off into the country. The younger Adams was embittered by a whispering campaign and retired a neglected and forgotten figure.

—HARDING AND WILSON—

One of the most trying trips to the Capital for any president was that of Woodrow Wilson with President-elect Warren G. Harding. Wilson was crushed mentally and physically by the defeat of his League of Nations. He was partly paralyzed, but insisted on riding with Harding to the Capitol. Harding told friends he was embarrassed and did not know what he should say during the ride up Pennsylvania Avenue.

Wilson, however, broke the ice by remarking that this was the first time the president-elect had discarded a team of horses to ride to the Capitol in an automobile. This led to a conversation about animals.

"I suppose," remarked Wilson with a smile, "your favorite animal is the elephant."

"I told him," Harding recounted to friends later, "that it was, but not for political reasons. I then told him a story about a sister of mine who lived in Siam as a missionary and had a pet elephant. This beast had been kept by my sister for years, in fact for most of her life. Upon my sister's death in Siam, the elephant would not eat and was most unhappy. This continued for days. Finally the elephant crouched on my sister's grave, raised its trunk in the air, trumpeted sadly, and died.

"I told this story in some details," President Harding told friends, "and by the time I had finished I was relieved to see that we had almost reached the Capitol."

When George Washington was inaugurated he had to borrow $3,000 to pay off his debts and for the expense of his trip from Mt. Vernon to New York . . . Like Jefferson, Andrew Jackson tried to walk from his hotel to the Capitol. He was swept off his feet by enthusiastic admirers who saw him walking bare-headed down the street . . . Jackson's inauguration was the first ever held before the public . . . Martin Van Buren rode to the Capitol in a Phaeton built of wood from the U. S. Frigate constitution. Jackson got up from a sick bed to ride with Van Buren.

Pickpockets used to have a field day at inaugurals. They came to Washington from miles around. In Jackson's day, newspapers featured stories of the largest single pickpocket's take totaling $900 . . . Today known crooks are arrested on suspicion, but there is still a certain amount of petty thieving . . . Inaugural weather, traditionally bad, caught Grover Cleveland and Benjamin Harrison, who defeated him, in a virtual cloudburst as they started up Pennsylvania Avenue. Neither had an umbrella. Turning to new Secretary of the Treasury Charles S. Fairchild, Cleveland said: "Lend us your umbrella. We are all honest men and will return it." . . . "I am not so sure of that," replied Fairchild, "but I will have to trust you." . . . Roosevelt is the only man who has received a salary cut while president. He lost $8,335.64 of pay for 43 days of work, as a result of having the inauguration moved from March 4 to January 20. However considering the number of years he has served, he should be able to afford it.

Legion Commander Tells Of Debt Owed To Servicemen

The public's responsibility toward the returning veteran of the present conflict was stressed by Dr. C. J. Gray, Petoskey, Michigan Department commander, in a talk Thursday evening at the Fisher Hotel where the official party of the American Legion and Auxiliary were entertained while visiting Gladstone on their mid-winter tour.

"Our job, that of the Legion and Auxiliary, is to fight for the veterans, to see that they are not let down and that when they return they will be treated in a manner that will make them proud of the nation for which they fought," said the department head.

The speaker touched on the potential need for hospital facilities and said that unquestionably one of the hospitals will be located in the Upper Peninsula.

Major A. D. Alguire, Detroit, liason service officer for the Office of Veterans' Affairs, made an able toastmaster at the after-dinner program. The major, a veteran of the first and present world wars, explained duties of his new position and said that while on the tour he was making a survey of prospective sites for a veterans' hospital which is to be constructed in the Upper Peninsula.

Called on by the toastmaster were Mrs. Edna Alber, department Auxiliary president; L. H. Alexander, department adjutant; Oliver F. Allard, Menominee, department 5th zone vice commander; Mrs. Odile Miller, Menominee, 11th district Auxiliary president; G. W. Beaudoin, Stephenson, U. P. adjutant and wellfare officer, and Harvey Quick, Manistique, 11th district executive committeeman.

Members of the city commission, the postwar planning commission, and the hospital committee were guests at the meeting.

During the dinner group singing was led by Wallace Cameron, there were vocal selections by Mrs. H. J. Skogquist accompanied by Mrs. Ed Olson Jr., an accordion solo by Mrs. Edward Olson Jr., and vocal duet by Mr. Cameron and Ole Peterson.

DOCTOR DORR DELIVERS TALK

Says Individual Citizen Must Show Interest In Government

In a very well received address to the combined P. T. A. groups of Manistique, held Wednesday evening in the high school auditorium Dr. Harold Dorr, emphasized that the individual must give time and attention to the administration of community, state and national government. "The home," he pointed out, "has lost its place as the elementary unit in the economic scheme, and to make up for its loss of responsibility, all adults must give greater interest to governing the agencies which have taken over these responsibilities.

"The home was formerly a unit in production, in social security, vocational education, religion, and recreation," he said. "All of these have moved 'outdoors,' as the man and then his wife have left the home to earn their living on the dollar rather than the actual produce basis. Schools, welfare boards, churches, and commercial recreation have taken over and their administration must be guarded by our citizens if we are to have a healthy community."

Preceding the speech, on the program were a concert by the high school band, and two songs, "By the Waters" and "People Will Say We're in Love" by the Girls Ensemble.

AGGIE EXPERT URGES ZONING

Believes It A Better Way To Conserve Land

Louis A. Wolfanger, Extension Specialist in Land Use Planning, of Michigan State College appeared before the Board of Supervisors Thursday morning to explain the service of zoning in meeting land use problems confronting the county.

Several counties in the Upper Peninsula have set up a zoning ordinance in recent years and several more are in the process.

Zoning provides a means whereby people of a county can promote the best uses of their land and their resources based upon their own experiences and judgement.

The discussion provided the board information as to what zoning is and how it works.

MISSING IN ACTION — Cpl. Lars Roger Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Olson, 632 Michigan avenue, is missing in action in Germany.

Word to that effect was recently received by his mother from the adjutant's office. There were no other details, other than that he had been missing since December 16.

Roger, as he was known to his associates, was born in Manistique on August 19, 1925 and lived here all his life. Two years ago he graduated from Manistique high school and for several months prior to his entrance into the service was employed in the local J. C. Penney Company store.

Roger entered the service two years ago and was stationed at Ft. Jackson, S. C., and later at Nashville, Tenn.

His unit went overseas in October. And from present indications saw action almost as soon as he landed on the continent. He was Mr. and Mrs. Olson's only child.

LAKE LEVEL ACTION URGED

Supervisors To Petition Court To Establish Standards

Court action to establish a normal legal level for Indian Lake was decided upon by the Schoolcraft county board of supervisors this week, who instructed Prosecutor W. J. Sheahan to prepare the necessary petition to the circuit court.

The board of supervisors Thursday heard a discussion of the Indian Lake level problem by Otto H. Hall, conservation department engineer, and Norman Billings, hydro-geologist for the department. Both indicated the conservation department is interested in establishing a legal level for the lake to provide adequate capacity for flood flows and to avoid high water damage. Riparian owners at Indian Lake also have been pressing for this action.

Hall declared that to control the normal level of the lake it will be necessary to construct a new river dam at Manistique Heights and improvements must be made to the present channel.

SCHOOLS HOLD OPEN HOUSE

Programs Are Presented At Lakeside And Central

Open house was conducted at the Lakeside and Central schools on Thursday, with mothers of the P. T. A. as the guests of the teachers. Winning the banner at the Central school for the most attending was Miss Winifred Orr's room, while at Lakeside there was a tie between Mrs. E. LaFave's 3rd and 4th grade and Miss Grace Kitzerow's kindergarten.

Classes were conducted as usual so that parents could observe lesson content and teaching methods. Some of the rooms had planned demonstration dances and games, and had practiced songs for their mothers to hear. After classes were dismissed the mothers met with the teachers for tea.

Hostesses at Central were Miss Orr, Mrs. William Mueller, and Miss Carrington. Lakeside hostesses were Mrs. M. Cookson, Mrs. LaFave, Miss Ruth Drake, and Miss Grace Kitzerow.

One child remarked to her mother, "Why is it that when we want you to come to the school, it always snows?" However, in spite of the adverse weather conditions the mothers answered the pleas of their children for attention and came to the school, Mrs. C. Chase PTA president, reported.

Escanaba Defeats Menominee; Gladstone Wins From Stephenson

ESKYMOS TAKE 38-12 MARGIN

Locals Show Reversal Of Form In Victory Over Maroons

The Eskymos basketball team, showing a complete reversal of form, crushed the Menominee Maroons, 38 to 12, at the junior high school gymnasium last night. The teams will meet at Menominee in the second game of the home and home series February 17. In the preliminary the Junior high team defeated the Escanaba Reserves, 28-26.

The Escanaba team completely dominated the play in last night's engagement. They sprung into an 8 to 2 lead at the quarter and extended their advantage to 19 to 4 at the midway mark. Never slackening their pace, the Eskymos turned the scrap into a complete rout in the third period, which ended 33 to 8. The reserves of both schools battled through most of the final period.

Ohman, Escanaba center put on the best performance of his career in spearheading the Eskymos' offensive from the pivot position. He dumped in three baskets and set up a number of others for the Escanabans.' In addition he dropped in seven free throws to score a total of 13 points and to take high point honors. Scott added 11 more for the Ruwitchmen and played a sparkling game.

Except for Cadieu, who scored three field goals and two free throws, the Maroons were quite helpless offensively. Even from the foul line the Menominee lads were off the beam and finally they elected to yield their free throws and take the ball out of bounds instead for the entire fourth quarter.

Trojans Play Emeralds At Bonifas Gym Tonight

The St. Joseph Trojans will play the Manistique Emeralds tonight at the Bonifas gymnasium in their second game of the week. On Wednesday night the Trojans lost to Felch here, 33 to 21.

For the second time since the holidays, the Trojans learned Wednesday night how sorely they miss their veteran guard, John Kroll, who left school to enter the merchant marine service. The previous week the St. Joseph team lost to Baraga at Marquette.

The rivalry between the St. Joseph and Manistique teams has long been keen and tonight's basketball battle shapes up as another of the familiar pattern of bristling games that has marked this relationship over the years.

Coach Fred Boddy probably will start the same lineup that he used to face off against Felch Wednesday. This lineup includes Weber and Bob McCarthy at forwards; Teal center; O'Donnell and Stropich, guards.

The feature game will start about 8:30 o'clock.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

The toughest district basketball tournament in the upper peninsula this year is the Ishpeming district, jam-packed with several of the classiest teams north of the straits. Of the entrants in the Class B division in that district, only Munising is ruled out as a possible title winner. Sault Ste. Marie and Negaunee have already established themselves as among the peninsula's crack teams, with Marquette and Ishpeming also rated as distinct threats. The winner of this district competition probably will automatically become the favorite to succeed Escanaba as the Class B peninsula champions.

* * *

Despite a relatively unimpressive record to date, including four consecutive defeats prior to last night's game with Menominee, the Eskymos have not eliminated themselves as possible contenders for the peninsula title. Some more seabacks are likely for the Escanaba team during the course of the current season, but Coach Ruwitch is hoping to bring the squad along gradually and to have the team reach its peak at tournament time. Even the most optimistic local fans concede, however, that the odds against the Eskymos repeating are long indeed.

Principal E. E. Edick of the Escanaba high school reported the other day that he was as much surprised as anyone when the athletic committee of the peninsula assigned the district track meet to Escanaba. There had been no overtures to Escanaba to accept the meet which has been held annually at Iron Mountain and no indication that a change was contemplated. The EHS principal declared, however, that Escanaba would be glad to put on the meet and would work out the arrangements later. It has not been decided whether the track meet would be held in addition to or as a substitute for the U. P. Relays.

The number of 4-F's in the major baseball leagues has dwindled from a high of 281 to 260, according to a census completed by Ford Frick of the National league. The National has 135 4-F's and the American league 125. Changes in rosters and individual classifications are responsible for the decline in the number of 4-F's in the majors. The total of 260 men rejected for military service in baseball's big leagues is an infinitismally small percentage of the nation's total of 3,900,740. Many — this latter number, of course, are already in war work and would be unaffected by proposed legislation aimed at 4-F's. Presumably all of the baseball 4-F's would be affected.

UNBEATEN IOWA NIPS MICHIGAN

Frosh Sub Wins Contest After Hawks Trail For 39 Minutes

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 19 (AP)—Iowa's undefeated Hawkeyes trailed Michigan for almost 39 minutes here tonight before tiny Freshman Forward Murray Weir popped in the winning basket in a 29 to 27 basketball victory over Michigan. It was Iowa's third straight Big Ten victory and its ninth in a row over all comers.

Weir, tiny little five-foot eight-inch substitute brought the Hawkeyes from behind with three straight sensational baskets in the waning minutes after Michigan had held a 15-11 halftime lead which the Wolverines stretched to 25-16 at a point midway through the final half.

Michigan was leading 27-22 when Wier stole the ball under the Wolverine basket and hooked in his third field goal of the game. Seconds later he counted on a fast break and after a scoreless three-minute stretch he connected again, this time from close range to put Iowa on top 28-27 with a minute and a half to play.

Jack Spencer's successful free throw with seconds remaining only served as an anti-climax.

The tall Hawkeyes were badly off their shooting eye in the early stages of the game and played surprisingly weak rebound ball despite their edge of two inches a man.

Vulcan Wins From Hermansville, 50-23

Vulcan, Jan. 19—Vulcan pummelled Hermansville to the tune of 50 to 23 tonight, with W Butler and Ball scoring 18 and 17 points respectively in the wild scoring splurge.

Vulcan put the game beyond redemption in the second period when they scored 22 points to only four by the Redskins.

BRAVES WHIP EAGLES, 38-19

Schnese Hot In First Half To Score 18 Points

With Schnese leading the way in a first half rout, Gladstone defeated Stephenson, 38 to 19, at the Gladstone gymnasium last night. Schnese scored 19 points for the Braves and garnered 18 of them in the first half. In a preliminary, Perkins defeated the Gladstone B team, 30 to 24.

Coach Brunelle's Eagles had one of those bad nights in which his team couldn't connect, while the Braves were hot. Gladstone pulled a 16 to 7 lead at the quarter mark and then whitewashed the Eagles in the second period while the Braves went on to grab a 26-7 advantage.

In the second half Stephenson was able to match the Braves but the damage had already been done.

Nearly all of the goals registered by Schenese in the first half were on shots directly under the basket.

THERE'S MORE TO REMEMBER THAN PEARL HARBOR!

Sure we remember the sneak attack of the Japs on Pearl Harbor—the infamous treachery of these vile murderers.

We were all shocked—made fighting mad, too—when we heard the horrible story of this "death march" on Bataan.

Yet that's the enemy we're still facing in the Pacific. Savages who care nothing for human decency—who know only how to butcher the prisoners they take and to keep on torturing them as long as they can.

We've got to stop them. We're going to stop them. We're going to avenge the American deaths they've caused—tenfold and more!

But that doesn't mean that any of us can sit back and take it easy. It takes nerves and steel to fight this war—and it takes money—a lot of money. For we've got to fight these monsters in every corner of the Pacific—that means ships, planes and guns in an endless quantity. So let's buy that extra $100 Bond right now. Then another and another!

Let's help erase the Japs—with our Bonds!

GIRL SCOUTS TO ORGANIZE

Miss Stickney And Miss Lind Are Here From Chicago

Miss Sally Stickney, Girl Scout regional director, and Miss Jenny Lind, field adviser of region 7, both of the national branch office, Chicago, are in Escanaba in the interests of promoting a Girl Scout organization in the county.

A meeting has been called for Tuesday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, in the study hall of the Junior high school, and all adults of the county interested in the Girl Scouting program, particularly fathers and mothers of girls eligible for membership, are invited and are urged to be present.

The two organizers will remain in Escanaba through Wednesday, completing plans for the organization of a County Girl Scout Council and preliminary plans for launching the organization.

Miss Lind, who is in charge of the upper peninsula, which is a part of region 7, like many Girl Scout executives, joined the organization as a volunteer leader.

She has seen at first hand the development of a group of young citizens through the give and take of troop activities.

When she entered professional Girl Scouting Miss Lind became a camp counselor and later a camp director. She is still interested in helping others enjoy the out-of-doors and believes that every community should do its utmost to provide camping for all the girls who want it. In addition to her camp work in the summer, Miss Lind was field secretary in Indianapolis for two years, Executive Secretary of the Girl Scouts of Evansville, Indiana for four years, a traveling executive secretary for one year, and has been a member of the national staff since 1943. She has also taught physical education in the high school of her home town, Baraboo Wisconsin.

Most of her hobbies are connected with the out-of-doors. She likes camping, skiing, fishing, photography and nature study and is interested in bicycle hostel trips.

She was graduated from the University of Wisconsin with the degree of B. S. in Education and is a member of Alpha Chi Omega national women's fraternity.

SCOUT EXECUTIVE — Miss Jenny Lind, field adviser of district 7, Girl Scouts, is in Escanaba, with Miss Sally Stickney, regional director, in the interests of reorganization of Girl Scouts in the county. Both are members of the national staff, and are with the branch office in Chicago.

Truck Transport Hindered By Snow

Truck operators engaged in the transportation of milk from farm to market in the Escanaba district of the Office of Defense Transportation are encountering extreme road conditions due to recent snows, Al. G. Weppler, district manager, ODT, division of highway transport, announced today.

Declaring that he has received reports that many driveways leading to farm yards from highways have not been kept in good condition, Weppler issued an appeal for the cooperation of farmers that this essential hauling may not be interrupted.

"Farmers are asked to keep their driveways clear of snow so that the milk haulers may be enabled to continue providing service," Weppler said.

He pointed out that less than one fourth of the motor trucks estimated as needed to meet essential war and civilian transportation requirements during 1945 will be produced and distributed to commercial operators. This necessitates the very best of present vehicle maintenance, which cannot be kept with poor operating conditions.

46 Hear Elizabeth Hosking Lecture

Approximately 45 persons heard Miss Elizabeth Hosking, who spoke at the junior high school Thursday night on the educational devolpment of the child from 5 to 12.

In her talk, Miss Hosking, a member of the faculty of Northern Michigan College of Education, stressed the idea that children grow in stages and that there are certain times when they have greater potentialities for learning various things.

She said that a child is born with a certain intelligence quotient and little can be done to change the intelligence quotient, but in order to reaize the greatest possibilities from a child's abilities, parents should provide the richest possible environment.

Dates for the two remaining lectures of the series have not been announced but they will be held sometime in February.
